Abstract:	The articles in this issue have their origins in the workshop on protection of the environment in relation to armed conflict that was held on 16 and 17 February 2012 at the Faculty of Law, Lund University. The workshop gathered together experts from Europe, the United States and Australia, including leading academics as well as representatives from the International Committee of the Red Cross, the Swedish, Norwegian and Danish Red Cross Societies and the Swedish and Norwegian governments to examine the relevance and adequacy of the existing regime for environmental protection during armed conflict as well as the ability of other international legal mechanisms to contribute to the amelioration of damage to the environment arising as a result of or in relation to armed conflict.
