

CICR

Gotovina case : an unjust charge or a deliberately erroneous judgment of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia ? / Liviu Alexandru Lascu

Document type:	Article
Title:	Gotovina case : an unjust charge or a deliberately erroneous judgment of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia ?
Host item entries:	Law review,
Author zone:	Liviu Alexandru Lascu
General Note:	Photocopies
Language(s):	eng
Abstract:	This article aims to analyze a recent and controversial decision of the Appeals Chamber of the International Criminal Tribunal for Former Yugoslavia, on November 16, 2012, which acquitted two Croatian generals, famous personalities of the civil war in the former Yugoslavia, who had been tried for perpetrating several war crimes and crimes against humanity by participating to a joint criminal enterprise and for their responsibility as commanders for the criminal acts perpetrated by their subordinates. The Trial Chamber's judgment which condemned these defendants was entirely overturned in a very surprising way, through Appeals Chamber doing a very original interpretation of some legal concepts on which, there was already crystallized a constant jurisprudence of this court.
Keyword in French:	JURIDICTION INTERNATIONALE YUGOSLAVIE DECISION COMMENTAIRE ARME FRAPPANT SANS DISCRIMINATION
Keyword in English:	INTERNATIONAL JURISDICTION YUGOSLAVIA DECISION COMMENTARY WEAPON THAT MAY HAVE INDISCRIMINATE EFFECTS
Authors:	Lascu, Liviu Alexandru

Call number	Disponability / Due date
344/642 (Br.)	Available